In the whole apartment we can find a lot of greenery. Its location has been taken into account already at the design phase. The system of hanging shelves in the home office was designed with plants in mind, among others. Arranged on different heights, they bring life to this space! - says architect Katarzyna Schudy, in whose studio a project of 75-meters apartment in Warsaw's Wola district was created.

In the living room, Schudy Studio proposed a capacious bookcase, hidden behind a sofa. In its lower part there are storage compartments opened from the top, for rarely used things. Above, over the sofa, open niches have been designed, ideal for exposing those elements, which are of special importance for the owners. The niches are illuminated by led light hidden in the construction. The part above them are simple white fronts, giving the furniture lightness, in idea they were supposed to blend with the wall.

Lighting in the kitchen area, living room and study was designed on a customer request. The main accent here is the most elaborate living room lamp, while other lamps refer to its form, not competing with it.

The kitchen comes alive with the green fronts of the kitchen cabinets. Plenty of storage space has been designed and the worktop on the kitchen island allows for easy conversation with guests in the living room.

The bedroom is also dominated by green, broken with white closets and roller blinds. The bathroom is dominated by pink and ala terrazzo pattern. The decoration of the interior are lamps, which were designed on a custom order.
