

Marcin Grabowiecki is an interior design and architecture photographer based in Warsaw (Poland). He graduated from the Institute of Creative Photography in Opava (Czech Republic). His passion for architecture was passed on to him by his wife. It was also she who convinced him to take up interior photography seriously. Marcin believes that every photoshoot is a meeting. The most interesting ones are those during which he finds a common ground with the designer, stylist and residents. He is most fond of interiors that reflect the personality and interests of the owners. When he's not photographing he climbs mountains, rides his bike or explores unknown corners of Warsaw with his daughter.